KEVIN PRITCHARD

PRESIDENT OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

When Larry Bird stepped down in May, 2017 as President of Basketball Operations, he didn't have to look far for his replacement: across the office where Kevin Pritchard was sitting.

Pritchard, who enters his seventh season as President of Basketball Operations, took the necessary steps to his current position. He started as Director of Player Personnel, became General Manager in 2012 and later became the Pacers' Executive Vice President of Basketball Operations/General Manager.

"I have the utmost faith in Kevin taking over," said Pacers' owner Herb Simon said in 2017. "He has learned from a couple of great ones, Donnie Walsh and Larry, while with the Pacers. We all feel he will do a tremendous job."

"I want to thank Herb, Larry and Donnie (Walsh) for giving me the opportunity of a lifetime," said Pritchard. "As someone who grew up in Indiana (he was born in Bloomington), I've always felt the Pacers' pride. The goal is always going to be the same as it has been through Donnie and Larry: to make this a world-class organization."

It was Bird who originally brought Pritchard to the Pacers and he added, "I'm very happy Kevin is stepping in and glad another Hoosier is in line to take over this job. He has a lot of experience from his years as a GM and he's ready to step into a leading role. With us, he has had his own ideas on the draft, players, and has used this an opportunity to push his basketball abilities to the forefront. His role is no different than mine was.

He makes all final decisions on all basketball-related matters. There can only be one voice and it will be his."

Prior to coming to the Pacers, Pritchard was the general manager of the Portland Trail Blazers from 2007-10 where he was instrumental in landing 2007 Rookie of the Year Brandon Roy and 2007 first team, All-Rookie member LaMarcus Aldridge. In his time with the Trail Blazers, Pritchard helped turn around a team that eventually posted its sixth-best record (54-28) in franchise history in 2008-09, a year that marked Portland's return to the playoffs for the first time in six seasons.

The 53-year-old Pritchard was born in Bloomington, Ind., and played collegiately at Kansas where he was a member of the Jayhawks' 1988 National Championship team. He played in the NBA with Golden State (drafted in the second round, 34th overall, by the Warriors), Boston, Philadelphia, Miami and Washington. He also played internationally in Italy, Spain and Germany.

After his playing career, Pritchard was the coach/general manager of the Kansas City Knights of the ABA, winning a championship in 2002. He has scouted for the San Antonio Spurs and became the Blazers' Director of Player Personnel in 2004. In the 2004-05 season, he served as the Blazers' interim coach for 27 games, then in 2006 became Portland's assistant general manager before taking over the GM position in 2007.

Kevin is married to Tatiana. He has two sons, K.J. and Lucas, two daughters, Kendall and Valentina, and a granddaughter, Ava.

RICK CARLISLE HEAD COACH

Seeking an established leader and winner to fill their coaching vacancy after the 2020-21 season, the Pacers turned to a familiar voice as they named Rick Carlisle as the team's head coach on June 30, 2021.

"I want to thank Herb Simon, Kevin (Pritchard), Chad (Buchanan) and the Pacers organization for having me back for a third time," said Carlisle during his introductory press conference. "This has been a very special place for me and my family."

Indiana made significant strides in 2022-03, Carlisle's second season after returning to the team. The Pacers jumped from 25 wins in 2021-22 to 35 in 2022-23 and saw the development of young talent begin to rise as Tyrese Haliburton earned his first NBA All-Star appearance and Bennedict Mathurin, the team's highest draft choice since 1988, earned NBA All-Rookie First Team honors.

The Pacers made postseason appearances in each of Carlisle's first three seasons (2003-06) as head coach while winning 18 playoff games over that span. Indiana reached the Eastern Conference Semifinals in 2004-05 before falling in six games to the eventual Eastern Conference champion Detroit Pistons.

He also served as an assistant coach for the Pacers under head coach Larry Bird from 1997-2000. Carlisle helped lead the team to three straight Eastern Conference Finals appearances, including the franchise's first appearance in the NBA Finals in 2000.

Carlisle ranks second among active NBA head coaches in career coaching victories behind San Antonio's Gregg Popovich. He enters the 2023-24 season ranked 14th in NBA history in career wins as he has posted an 896-793 mark (.530) over 22 seasons as a head coach. He has earned 241 wins over his first seven combined seasons as Pacers head coach, and is poised to pass Frank Vogel (250 wins) during the 2023-24 season as the franchise's leader in NBA coaching victories.

Carlisle has led his teams to the playoffs 15 times in his 22 seasons and ranks 17th in NBA history with 63 playoff victories.

"Rick is a proven winner, a champion and will be a Hall of Fame coach," said Pacers President of Basketball Operations Kevin Pritchard. "He has demonstrated throughout his career an ability to build something with sustainable success. He has great respect for our franchise and our fans from his previous times here."

Carlisle began his head coaching career with Detroit in 2001-02. During his two-season tenure, the Pistons won 61 percent (100-64) of their games to go along with two Central Division championships and a trip to the 2003 Eastern Conference Finals. Following his first season, Carlisle earned the NBA's Coach of the Year award.

Including his two seasons with Detroit and first with Indiana in 2003-04, Carlisle became the first coach since Pat Riley to win 50 games and division championships in each of his first three seasons as a head coach.

Carlisle completed 13 seasons as the head coach of the Dallas Mavericks from 2008-21. He became the winningest coach in Mavericks history in 2015 and finished with a 555-478 overall record (.537) in Dallas. He guided the Mavericks to the franchise's first world championship in 2011 while posting a 16-5 mark during the 2011 postseason. Overall, Carlisle led the Mavericks to the postseason nine times in his 13 seasons with the team.

Also an NBA champion as a player with the Boston Celtics in 1986, Carlisle is one of only 14 individuals to win an NBA championship as both a player and a head coach.

Carlisle served as an ESPN studio analyst during the 2007-08 NBA season before taking the lead coaching role with the Mavericks. He also currently holds the role as president of the NBA Coaches Association.

Carlisle began his coaching career in 1989 as an assistant with the New Jersey Nets. In five seasons with the Nets, he had the opportunity to work under Hall of Fame coaches Bill Fitch and Chuck Daly. Carlisle then moved on to Portland, where he spent three seasons as an assistant under P.J. Carlesimo.

In 1984, Carlisle began his NBA career as the only rookie to earn a roster spot with the Boston Celtics. He spent three seasons in Boston and enjoyed his best year as a professional for the 1986 NBA champions. He played one year with the New York Knicks under head coach Rick Pitino before moving on to New Jersey, where he played briefly for Fitch before being offered an assistant coaching position with the franchise.

Collegiately, Carlisle played two years at the University of Maine before transferring to the University of Virginia, where he was co-captain of the Cavaliers' 1984 Final Four team.

A native of Ogdensburg, New York, Carlisle graduated from Virginia in 1984 with a B.A. in psychology. He and his wife, Donna, have a daughter, Abby. He enjoys golf, piano, table tennis, flying his plane and spending time with his family, which includes two dogs, Zoe and Daisy.

More than just iconic architecture painted against the skyline of one of America's fastest-growing cities, Gainbridge Fieldhouse pulses with energy and invites us in to visit with the spirits from all those Where Were You When moments that wrap us up in true Hoosier Hospitality. It anchors the downtown and is a welcoming place for visitors and locals alike to relive some of the magical events that put Indianapolis on the map. Its history is the history of our city and state, of our rightful position as the cradle of basketball and our maturation into a cultural center in the Midwest. The Fieldhouse is certainly the best place in the NBA to watch a basketball game. That's undeniable as it is fitting, of course, since We Grow Basketball. But like its home city, it is so much more than the game we love.

While the distinct exterior design of the Fieldhouse is a quaint and appropriate homage to the fieldhouse gymnasiums that still pepper Indiana towns, the state-of-the-art facility has become a premier venue for more than 2 million guests attending 550 live performances, concerts, conventions, and games every year.

This includes the national FFA convention, the Big Ten Men's and Women's Basketball Tournaments, rodeos, ice skating performances, high school athletics championships, and more. And unlike so many professional sports and performance venues, Gainbridge Fieldhouse prides itself on being a true community asset that belongs to all of us.

PACERS SECURE ANOTHER STAR IN SIAKAM

BY WHEAT HOTCHKISS

In early 2022, the Pacers altered the course of the franchise by acquiring Tyrese Haliburton in a blockbuster trade with Sacramento.

Two years later, the Blue & Gold made another potentially franchise-altering trade, acquiring two-time All-Star Pascal Siakam from the Toronto Raptors on Jan. 17.

With Haliburton running the point, the Pacers are a team on the rise. They reached the championship game of the inaugural In-Season Tournament (with Haliburton making the All-Tournament team). After missing the playoffs the past three years, Indiana was just a game out of fourth place in the Eastern Conference at the time of the trade, with Haliburton leading the league in assists and seemingly on track to the 2024 All-Star Game in Indianapolis.

Now, Pacers President of Basketball Operations Kevin Pritchard and the Indiana front office have found another star to pair with Haliburton. Siakam's resume speaks for itself. He was the NBA's Most Improved Player in 2019, when he became a full-time starter and helped Toronto capture its first NBA championship. He was a first-time All-Star and second-team All-NBA selection the following season, was named third-team All-NBA in 2022, and an All-Star again in 2023.

While the Pacers have done an excellent job in recent years in acquiring rising stars via trade (all of Haliburton, Sabonis, and Victor Oladipo became All-Stars after being traded to Indiana), the franchise has never traded for an established star still in their prime like Siakam.

There have only been two other times that the Pacers have traded for a player that was an All-Star the previous season — when they traded for Billy Knight in 1979 and when they acquired George McGinnis in 1980 (both Knight and McGinnis had previously played in Indiana).

The 29-year-old Siakam has averaged over 21 points per game for five straight seasons. He is a versatile 6-8 forward who is both an offensive playmaker and a skilled defender. Over 39 games with Toronto this season, he averaged 22.2 points, 6.3 rebounds, and 4.9 assists while shooting 52.2 percent from the field.

To highlight just how good he has been, Siakam was one of just five players that averaged over 20 points, seven rebounds, and five assists in both the 2021-22 and 2022-23 seasons. The others on that list are Giannis Antetokounmpo, Luka Doncic, LeBron James, and Nikola Jokic. Elite company.

The pairing of Haliburton and Siakam will give Indiana two dynamic offensive options. Siakam should be a natural fit in the Pacers' offense, a great athlete ready to thrive in Indiana's fast paced attack, and will also benefit from playing alongside arguably the league's best passer in Haliburton. Siakam's presence will also free up things for Haliburton, limiting the amount of attention defenses can focus on slowing down the Pacers' star point guard and giving him another elite scorer to shoulder the scoring burden in crunch time, distinctions that will be especially important in a playoff series

"He's done everything in this league," Haliburton said of his new teammate. "He's won a championship, been an All-NBA guy, been an All-Star. He's been able to achieve those things. He's been around other great dudes. I look forward to forming a relationship with him and forming a partnership on the floor and him being able to teach me things as well."

The Pacers have not had two All-Stars at the same time since Paul George and Roy Hibbert in 2014. You might have to go all the way back to the 2000 NBA Finals team that featured Reggie Miller and Jalen Rose to find as talented an offensive duo as Haliburton and Siakam.

As good as Siakam already is, there is belief within the organization that his numbers could even go up playing alongside Haliburton, who has a proven track record of lifting up his teammates.

"Guys that have come to Indiana in the last two-and-a-half years have almost all experienced great jumps in their career trajectory playing in our system, playing with Tyrese, playing with our point guards," Pacers head coach Rick Carlisle said.

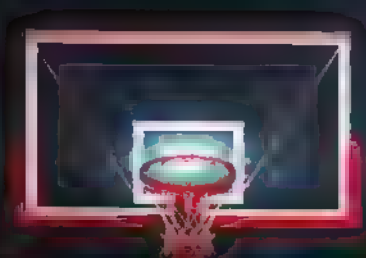

Defensively, Siakam's length and versatility will offer significant upgrades for a Pacers team that currently ranked in the bottom five in the NBA in defensive rating prior to his arrival.

While this season was initially about just getting back to the playoffs, the trade for Siakam raises the ceiling for what the 2023-24 Pacers can accomplish. The Pacers have two

All-Stars in Haliburton and Siakam, strong veteran contributors in Myles Turner, Buddy Hield, and T.J. McConnell, as well as several emerging young talents in Bennedict Mathurin, Aaron Nesmith, Andrew Nembhard, Obi Toppin, Jalen Smith, and Isaiah Jackson. Under the direction of a Hall of Fame coach in Rick Carlisle, that is a group capable of making considerable noise in the postseason.

"It's an exciting move," Myles Turner said. "Just to have someone with an All-Star resume, a 20-point a night scorer to come in to an organization like this, especially one that's building and trying to get to the place that he's been before. I think it was a very big move for us and big for the fans as well.

"I feel like sky's the limit for us now. I've been to the playoffs before and I've seen what it feels like. But now you want to get past that first round, you get to advance. I think it speeds that timeline up quite a bit."

The hope would be that the Pacers are able to mount a deep playoff run this spring and use that as a springboard moving forward. Siakam will turn 30 in April and be an unrestricted free agent this summer. Indiana would love to find a way to secure his services long term, whether that's signing a contract extension or re-signing in free agency. Having success on the court and alongside Haliburton would go a long way in those negotiations.

If Siakam remains in Indiana, the Pacers would have two stars locked up for several years (Haliburton signed an extension this summer that has him under contract through 2028-29), not to mention other key young players like Mathurin and Nesmith who will remain under team control for multiple seasons. The Blue & Gold could be in prime position to emerge as one of the East's true powers.

Siakam's looming free agency status will hover over this deal and ultimately determine the long-term success of the trade. But this much is already certain — the Pacers took a big swing and landed another star. And that alone is cause for excitement in Indiana, where the future is brighter than ever.

PACERS RELISH IN-SEASON TOURNAMENT EXPERIENCE

BY WHEAT HOTCHKISS

The 2023-24 season, there were plenty of questions surrounding the new event, from the potential format to the prize pool to how it would impact the regular season.

But the biggest question was if teams and fans would buy into the concept.

The answer in Indiana has been a resounding yes.

The Pacers expressed excitement about the opportunity to take part in the inaugural event, then made the most of that opportunity by winning all four Group Play games to advance to the Knockout Rounds. They made history as the first team to win an In-Season Tournament game, as well as the first to clinch a berth in the Knockout Rounds. They also hosted the first Knockout Round game, welcoming the Boston Celtics to Gainbridge Fieldhouse for an East Quarterfinal game on Dec. 4.

For a young Indiana team short on playoff experience, the In-Season Tournament was a welcoming opportunity to simulate a playoff environment in the early weeks of a season that they hope ends with the Pacers' first postseason berth since 2019-20.

Star point guard Tyrese Haliburton was an All Star last season at age 22, but he hasn't made the playoffs so far in his career. The same holds true for other young players on the roster like Bennedict Mathurin, Andrew Nembhard, and Isaiah Jackson.

Other young players like Aaron Nesmith, Jalen Smith and Obi Toppin were part of playoff teams in previous stops, but either barely saw the floor or played a limited role for those teams. They are now all key rotation pieces for the Blue & Gold.

Buddy Hield has been in the NBA for seven seasons, but has not yet made the playoffs. He entered the year with the dubious distinction of having played the sixth-most games without reaching the playoffs of any player in NBA history, a note he is hoping to erase from his resume this season.

Even other veterans like Myles Turner and T.J. McConnell have playoff experience, but haven't been to the postseason since the Pacers' last trip in 2020. And those playoff games took place in the NBA bubble in Orlando, so Gainbridge Fieldhouse hasn't hosted a playoff game since April 2019.

With all that in mind, the Pacers entered In-Season Tournament play with a purpose. They wanted to make the most of the chance to "play for something real," as Haliburton put it.

"I've never played in a playoff game so I take this very serious," Haliburton said. "Because it's my first time really competing for a championship, having a chance to win something."

"It's creative for sure, I think the thought with the IST is to make it different, make it very much a thing that you know when that thing is happening...I think it's pretty cool...The courts are making a statement that this is something special happening."

– Head Coach Rick Carlisle

For the first edition of the In-Season Tournament, the league divided each conference into three five-team groups based on last seasons standings. For Group Play, each team played four total games during the month of November against the other teams in its group (two home games and two road games). The three group winners and one Wild Card (the second-place team with the best record) from each conference advanced to the single-elimination Knockout Rounds.

The higher seeds (including the Pacers) hosted Quarterfinal matchups at their home arenas on Dec. 4 and 5, with the Semifinals and Championship game held on a neutral floor in Las Vegas on Dec. 7 and 9, respectively.

The league took a number of steps to make the In-Season Tournament as exciting and interesting as possible for both teams and fans. They unveiled a new trophy (the NBA Cup) for the winning team and rolled out a prize pool incentive for both players and coaches that pays out a bonus for each team that reaches the Knockout Rounds and increases in size based on how far a team advances, with every player on the team that wins the title taking home $500,000.

The NBA designated all Tuesdays and Fridays In November as In-Season Tournament days, with all the Group Play games taking place on those days of the week. But they also took an extra step to make the games visually distinctive, having every home team wear their City Edition uniforms and play on a court that features their City Edition colors.

For the Pacers, that meant a bright blue court with a gold runway across the middle of it. In Philadelphia, the Pacers played on an eye-popping red court against the 76ers.

The bright-colored courts were a stark departure for traditional fans, but drew plenty of attention, especially from younger audiences.

"I think it's fire," Haliburton said after playing on the blue court at Gainbridge Fieldhouse for the first time on Nov. 3. "I love the color. I feel like I'm in 2K out there."

Pacers head coach Rick Carlisle had never seen anything quite like it over his decades in the NBA as both a player and a coach.

"It's creative for sure," Carlisle said. "I think the thought with the IST is to make it different, make it very much a thing that you know when that thing is happening...I think it's pretty cool...The courts are making a statement that this is something special happening."

The courts certainly made a statement and so did the Pacers when the actual games began.

They had the distinction of hosting the first In-Season Tournament game to tip off on Nov. 3 against Cleveland. Turner scored the first points ever in the event, a two-hand slam off a dish from Haliburton in a pick-and-roll, and the Pacers ultimately came away with a hard-fought 121-116 win over the visiting Cavs, with Turner scoring a team-high 27 points.

The Blue & Gold's toughest test on paper was their next game — at Philadelphia on Nov. 14. But once again they were up to the task, as Haliburton tallied 33 points and 15 assists (with no turnovers) and Toppin added 27 points in a 132-126 win.

That set Indiana up with a chance to clinch their group with a victory in Atlanta a week later. What unfolded was one of the most exciting offensive showcases in recent NBA history. Haliburton was spectacular, recording 37 points and 16 assists, while Hield went 6-for-6 from 3-point range and hit the game-winning three in the final minute in a 157-152 shootout.

They closed out Group Play in style back at home on Nov. 24, outscoring Detroit 32-9 over the final nine minutes in a 136-113 win. Seven Pacers reached double figures in the victory, with Haliburton and Turner both collecting double-doubles.

There was an added intensity to each and every contest, with the outcome of every game in doubt entering the fourth quarter in all four games and coming down to the final minute in the first three.

"It's obviously not the playoffs, but they're playoff feel, playoff-like games," Turner said. "Us getting this experience early, being such a young group, is so important...Being battle-tested early so you're ready for that type of physicality and that type of style of play near the end of the year. It's big time."

"It's a great deal for us, great deal for the fans, great deal for the NBA," Hield added. "Watching these games, these games are high intensity. They're like playoff-type games. They're coming down to the last plays...It's been fun to watch."

Though the Pacers already knew they were hosting a Quarterfinal game, they were all tuned into the NBA action on Nov. 28, the final day of Group Play competition. Depending on the results of the five Eastern Conference games that evening, they could have ended up playing any one of seven different teams. Hield was glued to his phone that night trying to keep up with all the possible permutations.

"I'm calling coaches, I'm calling (analytics staffers) saying, 'Yo if this team wins or this team loses by this amount, who do we play?'" he said. "I'm trying to be locked in. It's kind of cool. I think that it's exciting to be following it."

The fans in Indiana and across the country appear to have bought in as well. The NBA had its highest average attendance on record for the month of November, set new records for social media consumption in November, and saw viewership increase by 20 percent year over year for local broadcasts, 25 percent for NBA League Pass, and 26 percent for national broadcasts.

The Pacers' reward for going 4-0 in Group Play? Hosting a game with real stakes in early December. And one more chance to play on that special bright blue floor.

"This team, it's been a while since they've made it far in the playoffs or got to the Finals," Toppin said. "So having the opportunity to have that type of feel of the playoffs, Finals type of atmosphere, it's fun for us, but it's fun for the fans, too."

Turner agreed, noting he was eager to once again be playing games with real stakes at Gainbridge Fieldhouse.

"Playing in front of the best fans in the world...This is exactly what we needed," Turner told Bally Sports Indiana's Jeremiah Johnson after the Pacers secured homecourt advantage for the Quarterfinals. "It's good for the city, it's good for Indy and good for our team as well."

"Love the floor, too."

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

HelpCureHD aims to help improve the quality of life for those affected by Huntington's Disease by contributing financial, emotional, and mental support while trying to find the cure.

THE PROBLEM

There is no cure for Huntington's Disease. Currently, there is a 50/50 chance a child could inherit the disease if a parent has HD in their family line.

There is a way to stop the gene from being passed on, through in vitro fertilization, or IVF. A procedure that implants embryos that do not have the HD gene can cost upwards of $25,000 - $30,000. This treatment is the only way parents who are at risk can guarantee their biological child will be HD-free.

OUR GOALS

- Provide the finances for families who are at risk and in financial need and are willing to undergo IVF in order to stop the HD gene from being passed on in their family line.
- Our broader focus is to continue developing partnerships with fertility clinics across the country and raising funds to help cover these costs for many more families.
- HelpCureHD has already awarded over 130 families through its grant program. That is over 130 families and future generations that will NEVER have HD.

Before coming to Indiana, Boyle spent time in Minneapolis, St. Louis - where he worked in one of the most highly regarded sports departments in broadcasting at KMOX - and New York, where he was one of the original on-air voices at WFAN, the country's first all-sports radio station. In addition to his NBA experience, which includes work on the nationally broadcast NBA Game of the Week, he has worked in the NHL, spending two seasons with the Minnesota North Stars, and has covered the NFL, Major League Baseball and Big Ten football and basketball.

A man of eclectic interests, Boyle has spent his summers broadcasting minor league baseball games, competing in the Active in several local charities, he has served on the Board of Directors of The Indiana Blind Children's Foundation and the Indiana Children's Wish Fund. Boyle spent part of the summer of 2010 walking 500 miles across Indiana to raise money for the Wish Fund, and in 2011 he raised money for charity by performing odd jobs, including working on the pit crew for ML Racing during a NASCAR race in Indianapolis, spending a day with the Indiana National Guard, and filling in as a meteorologist on the NBA affiliate in Indianapolis.

Boyle has been recognized as Indiana's Sportscaster of the Year five times by the National Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association, and has also been honored as the top talk show host in Indianapolis by Indianapolis Monthly magazine. INDIANA PACEMATES

Since the Indiana Pacers first hit the hardwood in 1967, the Indiana Pacemates have been right there with them! Originally known as the Marathon Scoreboard Girls and then the Paul Harris Pacerettes in the ABA, the squad presented fashion shows during selected timeouts and halftimes. After several years, the squad evolved into an entertainment entity of the franchise during the 1972-73 season and became known as the Indiana Pacemates. The Pacemates currently act as goodwill ambassadors to the community by making numerous appearances throughout the year for corporate, private, civic and charitable events on behalf of the Indiana Pacers.

The Pacemates' program continued into the 1976-77 season, when the Pacers entered the NBA. A dramatic new dimension was added to the Pacemates' program when they were heralded as the first professional dance/cheerleading squad in the NBA.

Creatively, the Pacemates merged the magic of dance and the excitement of cheerleading into a kaleidoscope of entertainment. So innovative and organized was the Pacemates' program that similar groups began to appear with other teams. Squads such as the Los Angeles Laker Girls, Chicago Luvabulls and the New Jersey Nets' Cheerleaders could now be found in NBA programs throughout the country. However, it was the Pacemates that were the trendsetters.

The Pacemates' excellent reputation for entertainment came to the attention of the NBA front office in New York City, which extended an invitation to the squad to perform at the NBA All-Star Game. This was the first time in NBA history that an invitation was extended to a professional cheerleading squad. The Pacemates continued to set the trend as they were also the very first NBA dance team to be invited to perform for U.S. and NATO troops stationed overseas on the Armed Forces Entertainment Tour in 2004 and 2005. In the summer of 2009, the Pacemates were invited to China by the NBA to participate in a 14-day tour with the Jam Van Tour and again in 2012 to China as featured performers for the Guangdong Mobile Tour. In 2013, they traveled to Taipei, Taiwan for NBA Cathay Youth Madness and the NBA 3x in Manila, Philippines and attend the NBA Global Games in both cities during the same season. Most recently, members of the Pacemates visited Regina, Saskatchewan in Canada for the NBA All-Star Challenge and to Xi'an, China for the NBA Five Basketball Tournament.

As the Pacers continue to succeed, so does the Pacemates' program, as they continue their tradition of excellence in entertainment and commitment to the community for the 57th season.

ASCENSION ST. VINCENT CENTER

In August 2017, Pacers Sports & Entertainment and St. Vincent unveiled the new Ascension St. Vincent Center, the Pacers' training facility and medical office building that will provide local residents and workers improved access to high-quality care. Groundbreaking took place in December of 2015.

St. Vincent, a member of Ascension, the nation's largest Catholic and not-for-profit health system, is a leader in medical excellence, including primary care, cardiovascular services and sports performance. The 20-hospital system secured the naming rights and on-site medical services for the five-story facility that was privately financed by PS&E.

The 130,000 square-foot Ascension St. Vincent Center is located on Delaware Street immediately east of Gainbridge Fieldhouse and adjacent to the Virginia Avenue Parking Garage. It is connected to Bankers Life Fieldhouse via a tunnel on the event level.

The partnership also includes the Ascension St. Vincent logo on the Pacers' practice jerseys. Ascension St. Vincent is also the exclusive health care provider of the Pacers.

For the Pacers, the Ascension St. Vincent Center houses two NBA-regulation practice courts named in honor of franchise icons Bobby "Slick" Leonard and Donnie Walsh, as well as the most modern training and medical facilities required by professional sports teams. Pacers basketball staff and business operations also moved to the Center, allowing future re-purposing and modernization of current space in Gainbridge Fieldhouse.

The Ascension St. Vincent Center became the 20th stand-alone training facility built by an NBA team since 1999. Many of those facilities have partnered with local health organizations.

INDIANA FEVER

In 1999, Pacers Sports & Entertainment announced the Indiana Fever would become the second team to play inside its new downtown Fieldhouse. As the Indiana Fever debuted as an expansion team in 2000, it did not take long for inaugural General Manager Kelly Krauskopf to build the team into one of the most successful in the WNBA.

The Fever have represented a model of consistency in the WNBA. Indiana made the WNBA playoffs in 12 consecutive seasons from 2005-16, which is the longest streak in WNBA history and the fourth-longest streak in major professional sports history. The Fever have reached the conference finals seven times, including the WNBA Finals in 2009, 2012 and 2015.

Led by All-Star forward Tamika Catchings, the Fever captured the team's first WNBA championship as Indiana defeated the Minnesota Lynx in four games during the 2012 WNBA Finals. The Fever's championship was the city's first pro basketball title since the Pacers won the ABA title in 1973. Catchings was enshrined into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame on May 15, 2021, along with Kobe Bryant, Tim Duncan, Kevin Garnett, Eddie Sutton, Rudy Tomjanovich, Kim Mulkey, Barbara Stevens and Patrick Baumann.

Under direction of General Manager Lin Dunn and first-year Head Coach Christie Sides, Indiana was led by two WNBA All-Stars, Kelsey Mitchell and Aliyah Boston, throughout the 2023 season. Mitchell concluded the season averaging 18.2 points per game, while shooting 40 percent from 3-point range. Mitchell recorded 728 points in 2023, which set a franchise record for most points in a regular season. Mitchell heads into 2024 in second place for most points in franchise history with 3,156 points scored during her six seasons in a Fever uniform.

After being selected as Indiana's first No. 1 draft pick in franchise history, Boston was named Associated Press Rookie of the Year, a 3-time Rookie of the Month recipient and an Eastern Conference Player of the Week nod for the week of June 12-18. Boston ended the regular season as the first rookie in WNBA history to lead the league in field goal percentage, shooting 57.8 percent (233-of-403) from the floor in 40 games. Boston also finished second in WNBA history for most rebounds in a rookie season with 335 rebounds, while finishing third all-time for field goals made as a rookie with 233.

MEL SIMON

OWNER • 1983-2009

In the fall of 2009, the Indiana Pacers retired a jersey to honor Melvin Simon, the team's late co-owner, who passed away Sept. 16, 2009. Along with his brother, Herb, the Simons bought the Pacers in 1983. But Melvin Simon's reach extended way beyond the Pacers. He was not only a leader in the business community but a visionary for his adopted hometown and one of Indiana's philanthropic giants. Pacers President of Basketball, Larry Bird, said, "He is a true legend to this city, not only for the visible things that everyone sees each day, but because he was a man who cared about people. He is one of this country's greatest success stories, a man who is a true example of the American Dream. As an owner of the Pacers, he was a joy to work for and to work with. But he wasn't only an owner, he was the biggest and best Pacers fan."

PACERS HYPE CREW

The Pacers Hype Crew is a fan interactive group that engages fans on the concourses during pre-game activities and assists with executing in-game promotions at every Pacers home game. You can hear them on all levels of the arena throughout the games, helping to keep the energy high and enhance our fans' game-day experience. This co-ed group also performs high-energy routines at select games- sometimes with the Pacemates. You won't want to miss seeing them on the court this season.

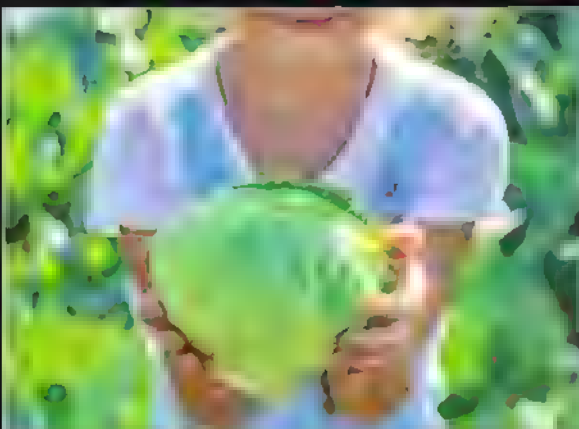

HIGH OCTANE DRUMLINE

The Indiana Pacers have a musical group to entertain fans at all home games. The Indiana Pacers "High Octane" Drumline perform in and around Gainbridge Fieldhouse entertaining fans and adding a touch of a collegiate atmosphere to Pacers functions and game night festivities. The group practices twice a week in the fall and once a week during the NBA season. It features the talents of approximately 24 performers ages 16 and older with backgrounds in pageantry art performance such as marching band and drum corps. The "High Octane" Drumline add yet another dimension to the already popular Pacers entertainment elements.

POWER PACK

The Pacers Power Pack have been entertaining Pacers fans since 1999. Fans from all over, enjoy watching their high flying, acrobatic, stunt dunking! They have traveled to China, India, Mexico, Philippines, Taiwan and two NBA All-Star games to perform. Boomer, the Pacers Panther, is a huge fan favorite who has made a cat-quick climb to become one of the best mascots in all of sports. His amazing athletic abilities and comedic antics win over fans of all ages. This wacky cat has a unique way of entertaining. His act draws plenty of laughs from fans, opponents and even referees.

His popularity continues to grow and he is now recognized locally, nationally and world-wide. Each year, Boomer makes more than 300 personal appearances. He has been to Australia, Brazil, Mexico, France, Spain, Germany, China, Portugal, England, South Korea, Scotland, Taiwan, Puerto Rico, Bosnia, Kosovo, Iceland, Lithuania, London, Denmark, South Africa, Holland and India. He has been a participant in 15 NBA All-Star weekends, featured in NBA national marketing spots and in one overseas publication was recognized as one of the top ten mascots in Europe.

To his credit, Boomer keeps his paws firmly planted on the ground (except when he puts on his dunking display) by participating in many charitable events. Those efforts earned Boomer a ROSE (Recognition of Service Excellence) Award from VisitIndy in 2015 and he was recently inducted into the Mascot Hall of Fame in 2020. Boomer also enjoys participating in Boomer's Chair Aerobics at Assisted Living Homes and Boomer's Boot Camp programs, and he travels to local schools putting on dunk shows/convocations that focus on fitness, anti-drug/anti-bullying messages, test preparation and reading. Boomer makes regular visits to area schools to promote these programs. If you would like information on booking Boomer, please call (317) 917-2882.

Pacers Gaming is one of four members of the Pacers Sports & Entertainment family - joining the Pacers (NBA), the Fever (WNBA) and the Mad Ants (G League). The franchise is also one of the original teams of the NBA 2K League which began play in 2018.

The NBA 2K League, a joint venture between the NBA and Take-Two Interactive, is a professional esports league featuring the best NBA 2K players in the world and is the first official esports league operated by a U.S. professional sports league. The NBA 2K League tipped off its inaugural season in May 2018 with 17 teams - including Pacers Gaming - each affiliated with an NBA team. Since then, the league has expanded to 25 teams, 22 of which are affiliated with NBA teams. The Gen.G Tigers (Shanghai), DUX Infinitos (Mexico) and NBL Oz Gaming (Australia) are the only NBA 2K League teams not affiliated with an NBA team. Teams compete in both 3 vs. 3 and 5 vs. 5 gameplay using unique characters (not existing NBA players).

Last year featured both remote and in-person games in a tournament-centric season structure split into two halves - 3v3 and 5v5; with a $2.5 million total cash prize pool. In-person competitions were played at District E in downtown Washington, D.C.

Pacers Gaming enjoyed the best season in its history just two years ago, going 20-8 in 2021 and securing a spot in the semi-final round of the NBA 2K League Championships. Highlighting the campaign was the play of top draft choice, Xavier Barraza of Chicago. Barraza, who goes by the gamer tag 630, became the first player in league history to be named Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player in the same season. He was named to the league's first-ever All-Star team along with Indiana teammate Jomar Varela-Escapa (Jomar). 630 led the league in scoring with a 35.0 average. His 65 points against Detroit on 8/12/21 set a new team mark.

"We never lose sight of the fact we are one of the original franchises in this league," said PSE President and Chief Executive Officer Rick Fuson. "Esports continues to grow not only in this country, but around the world. For years we've connected and cultivated various levels of basketball - grassroots, high school, college, and pro - with the Pacers and the Fever. We now continue this great effort with a new and exciting forum."

Since the start of the 2023 season, the NBA 2K League has added over 143K followers across its social channels (Twitch, YouTube, Twitter, Instagram, TikTok, Facebook.) NBA 2K League content has generated more than 691 million video views across all NBA and NBA 2K League social media platforms (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Twitch and YouTube). The NBA 2K League and its teams have more than 2M combined followers on social media platforms (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram).

NBA 2K League partners include Anheuser-Busch, AT&T, Champion Athleticwear, Coinbase, Dash Radio, Google, Loco, Mondelēz International, SAP, Snickers, Sony Interactive Entertainment, Sportl, SPS, Wilson and YouTube.
